DC210

COMPUTER SECURITY & HACKERS GROUP

Who We Are:

Defcon Group 210 is a spin off of the yearly held DEFCON hacker convention held in Las Vegas. Defcon Group meetings are held nationwide by the same individuals that organize & prepare material to be presented at the convention.

We are a group of hackers, IT professionals, and technophiles, diverse in skill and job position, but all the same in that we share a passion for technology, and all of its uses whether it be mainstream or underground.

Our Purpose:

- Technology related community projects
- Development of ideas
- Demo New Technology & Software
- Demonstration Exploits & Security Techniques
- Sharing of Technology & Security Knowledge
- Social Networking

Where To Go:

We meet once a month. Hopefully a static location. This months location is:

Thai Corner
8498 Fredericksburg Rd
San Antonio, Tx 78229
(210) 595-3203

Third Wednesday of the Month, 7:00pm

Who Should Come:

Defcon Group meetings are open to the public, there are no restrictions as to who can attend.

We only ask that those who attend are courteous to all others attending regardless of skill level, and that everyone present themselves professionally.

Our meetings are meant to be a tool the local hacking community as well as IT professionals can use to further their work & projects.

What Happens At A Meeting?

Meetings have multiple purposes, the first of which is to bring like minded individuals together in a centralized location to share knowledge and ideas. The second is to present new material, by way of lecture or demonstration. The third to start community projects that can be published or presented at computer security conventions like DEFCON, DallasCon, ToorCon, ShmooCon ect.

If you would like to present a topic, contact the Point Of Contact (POC) at the bottom of this sheet for more information & guidelines.

We will have a projector available for presentation use at future meetings.
